

DISCUSSION GUIDE FOR BOOK CLUBS & TEAMS

I'm honored you've chosen to read Ordinary Superpowers with your team or book club. It's a great way to get even more out of the material! In fact, I conducted a book club with my team at sparkspace and it was very illuminating and empowering for all of us!

I want to help you get the most out of your time together, so here are ten starter questions to help guide your discussion. I'm sure you'll come up with even more once you start talking. Please send me a note after you meet (mark@markhenson.me). I'd love to hear how it went!

1. Did you discover your Ordinary Superpowers? What are they?
2. What do you think about the the concept of "Ordinary" Superpowers — how we mistakenly think that our greatest strengths are not very special or unique?
3. Where do you struggle the most in thinking about or discovering your superpowers?
4. What can you do if your powers don't seem to match your passions?
5. What percentage of time do you currently use your superpowers?
6. What is one way you could increase that percentage in the near future?
7. Does using your "decent strengths" ever keep you from using your actual superpowers?
8. Can you improve your superpowers? How?
9. What is your kryptonite? How does it interfere with your superpowers?
10. If you could use your superpowers more, how would life look different for you?
